Board of Directors Policy
Structure, Guiding Principles, and Duties

Structure:

Harmony Riders Board of Directors will be based on a democratic model. This means that the members govern. There is however, an agreed upon balance of power between the members and the officers/board members they elect. This balance is guided in part by the duties described in this document. The club By Laws, and the policies within, are the governing documents of the club. While Harmony Riders does not recognize “Roberts Rules of Order” as it’s official governing document, the basic principles of a democratic model Board of Directors and basic democratic principles as they apply are used and can be referenced within them.

Guiding Principles:

The Board of Directors is primarily the administrative arm of the club and it transacts the business of the club between regular meetings. Members of Harmony Riders rule through a decision making process established by a vote. All permanent club members are equal – with equal rights and responsibilities. Business decided at the regular meetings is vested in the Board of Directors to follow through to completion.

The board of Directors only has the power that governing documents assign to them. Powers not specifically given to the Board of Directors may be reversed by the members.

All business occurring during Board of Directors meetings is openly discussed with the general membership in the form of a report given at regular monthly club meetings. Occasionally, a personal grievance is heard, in which the details are not given to protect the individual’s rights. Board of Directors members are charged with fairly protecting the rights of both individuals and the general membership.

All elected Board of Directors members and club officers should have a working knowledge of the club By Laws and policies within. They should know the expectations of the position and be able to fulfill this commitment.

The following are basic organizing duties intended to keep a consistent organizational flow from year to year. They are not all inclusive and can be changed or modified following standard procedures of the By Law Committee.
